WELCOME TO MARYHILL MUSEUM OF ART

Maryhill Museum of Art was originally planned as a private residence for Northwest businessman Sam Hill. In 1907 he purchased 5,300 acres to start an agricultural community he named after his daughter, Mary. Around the same time, Hill developed lasting friendships with famed dancer Loïe Fuller, Queen Marie of Romania and San Francisco sugar heiress Alma Spreckels. When his planned farm did not materialize, Fuller convinced Hill to convert his unfinished house into an art museum. During the dedication in 1926, Queen Marie said, "There is much more than concrete in this structure. There is a dream built into this place, a dream for today and especially for tomorrow." Although neither Hill nor Fuller lived to see the museum open to the public May 13, 1940, Spreckels continued to exert an influence on the museum for nearly two decades. Today Maryhill welcomes thousands annually to the museum and gardens, and protects and preserves Hill's ranch, leasing a fraction of it to ranchers and farmers, fulfilling Hill's vision for the property.

The Mary and Bruce Stevenson Wing was dedicated May 13, 2012. Designed by GBD Architects and built by Schommer & Sons, it was awarded a Gold certification from the U.S. Green Building Council's Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED®) program. It is a vital step toward furthering the museum's mission to collect, present and preserve art and historical and natural resources and to enrich and educate residents and visitors of the Pacific Northwest.
